

CHAPELS on Whatley

Be transported to a faraway place when you step through the doors of Chapels on Whatley. Set in a beautiful century old building in the heart of Maylands, this unique store stocks authentic antique oriental furniture and collectables that would bestow a sense of style and warmth to any home.

Owner Glenn Bartels deep appreciation of all things eastern is evident in the wide range on offer at Chapels on Whatley. He sources and personally hand picks all items from buying trips to China, Vietnam, Singapore, Japan, Tibet, Mongolia and Korea. Glenn's passion and knowledge shines through when he speaks:

"Throughout Asian history, furniture has served a decorative, mystic and artistic function. Details play a central role in eastern furniture design. The mysterious symbolism and exotic imagery often gives the pieces mystical connotations. Oriental furniture is often regarded as enchanted, adding soul, depth and a personality to any room."

A new delivery has arrived at Chapels just in time for Christmas. The store is brimming with cabinets, writing bureaux, mirror frames, dressing tables, stands and stunning artefacts.

You will also find desks, screens, cupboards and chairs featuring richly lacquered surfaces, elegant carves and elaborate latticework - all exquisitely handcrafted from precious wood.

To celebrate Christmas, Chapels has marked down a selection of small cabinets from $295 to $189 each. These small cabinets are ideal for bedside tables, phone tables or perfect for filling a spot in a room that needs a little oomph. Handpainted on each cabinet are traditional Chinese motifs of joy, fertility, wealth and longevity.

In addition to the furniture, Chapels on Whatley stocks a gorgeous range of gifts, including soy aromatherapy melts, oil burners and pretty paper lanterns. There is also hand crafted leather trinket boxes, ceramics and Tibetan singing bowls, or for something really exotic, there's Japanese erotic wall art on hand made silk paper. Still not sure what to buy that special someone? Chapels have a beautiful range of oiled paper and silk parasols.

Conveniently located opposite the Maylands train station and open seven days, come in and say hello to Glenn and the team at Chapels on Whatley. They will be happy to welcome you
