From Chris Mulford comes this interesting essay...

Last week, I sent an essay to the National Public Radio project called "This I Believe." Today I received notice that my essay has been posted on their website but not chosen for broadcast. (They select only a fraction of 1% of the submissions.) So it's up to me to distribute it, and I'm sending the link around to my pals in case you're interested in reading it.

A good reference source

from Gini Baker

I am sure you all know this .. however if not ... www.books.google.com is a site where you can type in a subject or word and textbooks with the subject and the page numbers come up ... a grand way to get quick guide of what's on the market ..
