LambEx heads to Albury in 2016

THE countdown is on for LambEx 2016 with just a year to go until Australia's premier lamb industry event.

Albury, New South Wales, has been chosen to host the fourth LambEx on August 10-12, 2016.

LambEx 2016 organising committee chairman Rodney Watt, Greenethorpe, NSW, says the city was the perfect choice for the event.

"The location, facilities and community support are all set to ensure the event is a great success, and it is a great opportunity to promote NSW's world-class lamb industry," he said. "We are delighted to have partnered with the Albury City Council to use their wonderful facilities."

The most recent LambEx, held at the Royal Adelaide Showgrounds in 2014, attracted more than 900 delegates and 70 exhibitors.

Some of the highlights of 2014 will be back in Albury, including the pre-conference tours and Young Guns competition where some of the best up-and-coming talent in the sheep and lamb industry is showcased.

"All sectors of the lamb industry have come together to build on the previous LambEx success and ensure the Australian sheep and lamb industry continues its proud tradition of showcasing itself," Mr Watt said.

"We have gathered together a wonderful organising committee that represents every sector of the sheep and lamb industry and their enthusiasm is infectious. I look forward to providing industry with updates as we progress with our planning of LambEx 2016."
